RABBI GOTTHEIL, the great Jewish leader of the Temple Emmanuel, the most mag-nificent synagogue of the country, has declared in favor of woman suffrage. He is a valuable convert to the system, and, like all new converts, is full of enthusiasm for the cause he is advocating. It is certainly a most marked advance for a Hebrew rabbi with the Mosaic law before him, which deprives women of all rights, to advocate woman suffrage.

Mount Vernon Avenue. The passage yesterday by the Virginia legislature of a resolution turning over a valid claim of that commonwealth against the federal government to the Mount Vernon Avenue Association is the most auspicious incident that has yet occurred in the effort to build a great highway from the national capital to the tomb of Washington. It is a recognition by Virginia of the patriotic and worthy character of this movement, the value of which can hardly be overestimated at this stage of progress in a work that must eventually commend itself to the American people as one dc. serving of their heartiest approbation Virginia has done nobly. Prostrate, as she is, under a heavy financial burden, it is especially magnanimous in her legislature to give this mark of indorsement to Mount Vernon avenue, carrying with it as it does, financial help to the amount of at least $120,000, for there can be no doubt of the allowance of the claim by Congress It was proper, however, that Virginia should speak first of all the states. This beautiful memorial is to be built on her soil to the honor of her most illustrious son, who sleeps at Mount Vernon, on the banks of the Potomac. Virginia having appears that Ward, who is a fluent talker, set the example, now let the other states follow, and soon we shall see the completion of this most laudable undertaking. Its nobly in its beginning, when the hardest work was to be done and the most discouragement was to be endured, ought now to take heart and redouble their ener gies, for the outlook was never so bright

Another Virginia Tragedy.

We suppose the people of Culpeper, Va., are now saying that the deplorable tragedy of Thursday, by which young Williams was killed outright and young Barbour badly wounded, could easily have been prevented. What criminal folly to allow these two bright young men, hotheaded and foolish, to shoot each other to pieces like desperadoes in a western mining town! What excuse can there to for such a tragedy in the peaceful and almost classic precincts of Virginia! Whatever may be the sense of personal honor inculcated into the youths of Virginia they must learn that the duello and all its bloody co-ordinate methods of relief are but relies of a barbaric period, and that the revolver and the dagger have no place in the highest civilization. While the personal courage of young Williams may be admired, and while it may be a source of consolation to his friends and admirers, yet what a paitry compensation for the snuffing out of his fireds and admirers, yet what a paitry compensation for the snuffing out of his friends and admirers, yet what a paitry compensation for the snuffing out of his friends and admirers, yet what a paitry compensation for the snuffing out of his friends and admirers, yet what a paitry compensation for the snuffing out of his friends and admirers, yet what a paitry compensation for the snuffing out of his friends and admirers, yet what a paitry compensation for the snuffing out of his friends and admirers, yet what a paitry compensation for the snuffing out of his friends and admirers, yet what a paitry compensation for the snuffing out of his friends and admirers, yet what a paitry compensation for the snuffing out of his friends and admirers, yet what a paitry compensation for the snuffing out of his friends and admirers, yet what a paitry compensation for the snuffing out of his friends and admirers, yet what a paitry compensation for the snuffing out of his friends and admirers, yet what a paitry compensation for the snuffing out of his friends and admirers, yet what a paitry compensation for the snuffing out of his friends and admirers, yet what a paitry compensation for the snuffing out of his friends an

We are in receipt of a new paper published at Key West, Fla., called the Key West Cigar, a very appropriate name for a newspaper printed a term where almost the entire business is the making of cigars. Mr. George Eugene Bryson, a bright, versatile writer, is the editor of the Cigar, and will doubtless make it of value to the city and island of Key West.

Among other acquaintances he made was that of a promnent real estate man, and as he had ex-pressed a desire to invest in real estate their friendship grew accordingly, and the real estate man introduced him to a num-ber of other friends and business men. Among others presented was Wm. Smith, a loan broker. In the early part of Febru-ary Ward talked to Smith in regard to purchasing some property from him and promised to call around the next day and consummate the purchase. There were numerous authorities to show that all pooling contracts, with certain limitations, were void, and no contract could be enforced if its conditions were against the general good. The contracts under consideration had been made with the object and intention of defeating every substantial requirement of the grants. After Jay Gould and his ring had conducted the Union Pacific as long as if he could make anything out of it he had walked off, leaving the company bank-rupt, and taking with him among the assets the telegraph lines, with which he levied discriminating tributes from the people west of the Missouri river.

Mr. Dockery, of Missouri, said that under the granting acts the Pacific companies were required to construct not only railroad lines, but also a telegraph line.

railroad lines, but also a telegraph line. Instead of doing so they had assumed to divest themselves of their obligations by contract with the Western Union Telegraph Company, conferring upon that company the exclusive right of way along the railroad lines. The acts of Congress requiring that the telegraph lines along the Pacific railroads should receive all business without discrimination were nullified by this unlawful contract with the Western Union Company.

The danger to corporations lay in their disposition to overleap the confines of statute laws and set at defiance the will of the people.

Mr. Editor, there are quite a number of private soldiers in this city who performed the most honorable and the most hazardous service for the Union cause during the wicked rebellion, and who are sufficiently qualified to present an argument so complete in logic and in truthful statements as to make it possible for them to administer a most fitting rebuke to those men who have so unjustly misrepresented us under the protection of the law.

Let me suggest that we have a public meeting at the earliest day possible, where men who were real private soldiers can have the opportunity of showing to the American people that these guards of the national treasury are pretenders only.

Let us take up this warfare ourselves, my comrades, and jealously guard and protect the good name of our fallen heroes.

Let us show these haters of the nation's defenders that if the statements of our friends in Congress are not to be believed, or if they fail to meet the issue, that we, the rank and file of the Union army, can present the most unanswerable argument from our own line.

Comrades, such action is warranted, for the reasons here stated, and I hope you will again rally on the colors; not in a spirit of destructive physical warfare, but rather with an argument couched in terms which show the magnanimous spirit of a true conquerer, prompted by a sense of pity for those who have made its production necessary. on the Railroad. Moses Stearman, by his counsel, Frank Browning, yesterday filed a suit against the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company for $20,000 damages. On Dec. 14 last the plaintiff, a milkman, was driving into the city with his team, and at the New York avenue crossing was run into by a train, killing his horse, smashing the wagon, and injuring the man so seriously that for a long time his life was despaired

During his confinement to bed from his injuries his wife attended to the business, and, having no team, she brought the milk into the city on foot. During a heavy fall of snow, about ten days after her husband's injury, she was obliged to use the tracks of that road, and was struck and killed by a train at almost the same place where her husband received his injuries. It is also the intention of Mr. Stearman to bring suit against the company for his wife's death.

and appears to have hit it hard. It is the latest society fad for the belles, and picking the strings seems to be the chief occupation in many fashionable residences. Banjo and guitar parties are now considered quite the thing, but the banjo has the ascendency in popular favor. The craze and the measles, also epidemic, seem to have made excitement sufficient for the gay capital city, especially as Lent is barring many other amusements.

The banjo is supposed to be of American origin and until late years had its greatest admirers on the minstrel stage. Probably the highest authority on that subject is Prof. Henry C. Dobson, of New York, head of the famous Dobson family, who states that the banjo is as old as the hills and that recent excavations in Egypt have discovered instruments not unlike it. With this instrument the great "She," whom Rider Haggard tells about, no doubt won the love of the Egyptian king Ramases II. Virginians are almost as proud of the banjo as they are of the fame of Washington, and it was a native of that state, Jo Sweeny, who gave the first public banjo recital in America. This was years ago, and the instrument has been improved and experimented upon until perfection in quality and tone has been secured. Perhaps there is no sweeter toned instrument than the silver bell banjo, although experts differ as to which style of instrument is to be conceded the palm. It is now becoming more of a parlor than a stage instrument, many society ladies, as well as actors and actresses, learning to perform for their own amusement. Lotta, Ellen Terry, Mrs. Langtry, and Clara Louise Kellogg are said to be expert performers.

Lady Randolph Churchill and Lady Mandeville learned to play while in America. And the content of th

When "Old Hickory" was President, and visited the Navy Department, he never ascended the stairs alone, but called "Uncle Lindsay," and when the door-keeper responded, would walk up the steps with the faithful attendant immediately behind him. This little ceremony Jackson always insisted upon.

Uncle Lindsay is rather feeble in his movements now, but so far he has not signified any intention of resigning. Changes of administration do not worry him at all; he is perfectly secure. To remove him were a sacrilege as base as it would be to desecrate an ancient tomb. Long may he wave. Rugiand traders understand. G. O. Taylor Old Bourbon has been sold and bottled by CHESTER H.
